COLLECTIONS POLICY

Gifts to the Museum are considered outright and unrestricted donations to be used in the best interest of the Museum. The Museum shall collect only those objects of a nature consistent with its purpose and scope. Donors must declare in writing that they have full ownership of the item(s) donated or have absolute authority to make said donation. Exhibition of any object is entirely at the discretion of the Museum.

The Evergreen Aviation Museum is a 501(c)(3) charitable organization, and contributions to it are tax deductible to the extent of the law. It is the responsibility of the donor to secure any appraisals to support deductions.

TYPES OF GIFTS TO THE MUSEUM

Permanent Collection:

A Gift Agreement is used for these gifts. These items possess historic, scientific, technological or educational significance, and/or a high aesthetic quality. Accessions to the permanent collection are used for exhibition, examination, research, and/or loan to other institutions. In order to improve existing collections, make best use of storage space and to best serve the public interest, objects that do not contribute to the purposes and goals of the Museum will be considered liabilities and subject to deaccession, such as duplicate, irrelevant or badly deteriorated objects.

Research/Education Collection:

Items designated to this category may not meet all the requirements of the Permanent Collection, but may be used for educational programming, exhibition, examination, research, or loan. This material will not be accessioned although the donation will be acknowledged and a record of its receipt will be maintained. Examples include excessive duplicates of items already in the permanent collection or photocopies of data for research.

Expendable Commodities:

A Proffer of Gift is used for these gifts. These items shall be used for utilitarian, trade or sale purposes. Examples include excessive duplicates, serviceable items donated for practical, functional or utilitarian purposes, or items unrelated to the scope of the Museum.
